2023 ISSA International Election

William Smith, Jr. Nominated: Director

Candidate Goals

Advocate for chapters and chapter leaders: As co-chair of the Chapter Leaders Committee, I have heard firsthand many of the concerns and frustrations that our chapter leaders are experiencing. I will maintain this engagement with chapter leadership and help provide the resources and support that our chapters and chapter leaders need to succeed.

Increase outreach to students and grow the profession: Members represent the lifeline of our chapters. By extension, students represent the future of our organization and profession. I will endeavor to expand these efforts by encouraging chapters to partner with local schools and universities as part of an overall outreach effort. Furthermore, I would also encourage chapters to develop relationships with employers and other organizations to promote the need for more students to consider a career in cybersecurity.

Highlight the benefits and value of membership: The benefits and value of ISSA membership extends beyond professional development and earning CPEs. The opportunities to network and develop relationships, both personal and professional provides immeasurable value. From a personal standpoint, these opportunities played a significant role in where I am at today in my career. I will bring attention to these benefits, which also provide opportunities to give back to our community and profession.

The Value Of Engaging Cybersecurity Communications

Keeper Security Director of Global Communications Anne Cutler will share her unique career path from anchoring the evening news in a small town in Wyoming to leading international communications for a global cybersecurity provider. Through her unusual background, Anne has developed a deep appreciation for the value of conveying complicated messages in plain language quickly, clearly, and accurately across all platforms, to include traditional and emerging media. She will discuss how she's applied lessons from her national television experience to handling crisis communications; securing positive, proactive press; and building enduring relationships with journalists, partners, and stakeholders. Anne will explain the critical importance of communication in the ever-expanding field of cybersecurity with real-world examples, including the Shields Up campaign at the onset of the war in Ukraine and the unprecedented response to the Apache Log4J vulnerability.
